

Fragile System

Why is the system so fragile?

1. The government cannot force you to do anything.
2. They have to tell you what they are doing.
3. For there to be a valid contract, there must be informed consent.

Proclamation:

Many if not all “Colour of Law” within the legal system has not been proclaimed. This is the act of an individual proclaiming the new law to apply to all citizens and members of the public.

They must take responsibility and therefore liability for it. The new “Law” must be dated and signed.

The people behind the legal system attempt to get round this problem by way of “tacit” agreement.

The individual is sent the un-proclaimed “Colour of Law” by mail who is then scammed into agreeing to the new “Colour of Law” when they open the envelope.

It is at this point that the “Colour of Law” becomes activated as it is you who has proclaimed it on that date.

Administration

Another trick that is played upon an unsuspecting person is through the use of quoting acts, statutes, regulations, legislation etc. within unsigned documentation sent through the post.

What the sender of this deceptive document is trying to achieve is to get the recipient to assume said acts and statutes apply to them, when in fact they do not.

What the unsuspecting recipient is doing by assuming said acts and statutes apply to them, is in fact just accepting the offer to contract.

To combat this ploy ask for the name of the person who is going to administrate the acts and statutes upon you, quoted in the document.

No one will accept liability for this, as you did not give them permission or authority to do so.

Debt:

Contrary to the average person’s belief, there is no debt. Although they believe they have taken out loans and are liable to pay them back, this is not the case.

With the use of their live certificate of birth, new credit is created in the unsuspecting person’s name.

When they apply for any loan, they are in fact given back their own credit and are tricked in becoming the debtor, when they were in fact the creditor all along.

Corporations:

In essence the whole world is operating as a trust, with property rights being separated from user rights.

People believe they own their land, home and cars, but in reality only hold the usage rights. The property rights are held in trust by corporations.

However, corporations are in fact legal fictions, and only exist in the “flat earth” of a document.

Because corporations do not exist, they therefore have no rights. Without rights and the ability to exercise them, then all property rights can be taken back by the living, without objection.

Corporate Employees:

With a lot of people working for corporations, many think they have signed a contract; this is unlikely and in most cases they have not.

A contract requires the signatures of at least two people, meaning what is written within that contract only applies to those who signed it.

What most people have actually signed is nothing more than a service agreement, meaning it only has one signature.

With only one signature, then it is only charged by one person, who has control over the document.

No one else can change this service agreement, as their signature is not marked on it.

If anyone should attempt to change this service agreement, without their signature on the document, they would be violating the rights of the signee.

As no one would ever take liability over any changes to this service agreement, all the power is with the signee.

Titles:

Almost all people who believe they have power hide behind legal fictions, such as corporations and use their title to gain status within this corporate structure.

However, those who accept no title and do not recognise the dead entity of a corporation have a higher status than anyone with a title, as they have a status of sovereign.

Mail:

With almost all business now being conducted through a corporation, mail is being sent out that has no lawful or legal standing.

Almost nothing that is sent out is written in English and has the necessary wet ink signature to charge the document to make it lawful.

Furthermore, when these documents are challenged, no one within the corporation wants to take liability for it.

So, without liability there is no claim; without claim there is no contract.

Utilities:

All utilities and insurance have already been paid for, by using the credit of the people.

Because corporate government operates as a trust, credit is created by the people's live Certificate of Birth, and "The Government", namely the treasury has taken the place as trustee within this trust, meaning they are liable to repay this credit as they are the debtor.

However as the treasury does not want to pay back the debt of the people; they sell this debt to corporate utility companies who then offer a contract to the people to pay them, who in turn will pay back the government, minus a percentage commission.

Note: It should be noted that these utility and insurance companies do not have the right to make you pay them, they require your consent.

The unsuspecting person is usually sent an offer to pay, using a document sent through the post that is usually addressed "to the occupier" and is not signed.

Most people fall into this trap as they consider it a bill, when in fact it's their own credit.

So to recap, your gas, electric, water, insurance is already paid, that's why you make RE-payments, as it is the second time you are paying them.

Registration:

Government departments, which are all corporations and therefore dead entities, offer a service of registration.

Although most people believe they have an obligation to register their property and children, they do not.

The act of registering anything with the corporation called government, transfers property ownership to that corporation, leaving you with nothing more than the user rights.

For example: In the U.K. which in itself is a corporation, there is a government agency called DVLA, which stands for Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency.

When you register your property, such as your car, you have allowed a trust to manage the property rights of said car.

The car is now issued with a government property number in the form of a Licence Plate, and you now have use of the car Under Licence.

Although the DVLA are in fact the trustee, they once again trick the unsuspecting individual that they are the trustee and are liable for all the costs of using the car.

This means as the Registered Keeper, you are now liable for all taxation costs, mot costs, and all traffic related fines.

If you fail in your obligations the DVLA can now seize the car, which is government property, using "The Police", as they are just policy enforcers, working for an agency controlled by the same corporation called government.

Income tax:

Income tax is only payable by those who accept the title Employee, or Citizen, or Member of the public, or just simply Taxpayer.

Note: accepting these titles is usually done by using and signing paperwork that is supplied by the government that the average person cannot read.

If you have inadvertently accepted one of these titles, you have accepted liability to pay; however it is a misconception that you have no choice but to allow your employer to automatically remove this tax from your salary.

Your employer is only acting as an agent to do this service for you, but you have every right to decline this service and request that you are paid in full.

However it should be noted that "salary" and "wage" are also legal terms and subject to tax if you use them.

Note: For those no longer wishing to take the title of "Tax Payer" they often opt to work for free and have their employer make a donation, in full, to a private family trust.

Council Tax:

All councils are private corporations, with no real ties with the legal system.

You have no contract with them meaning you have no obligation to pay them.

This fraud is so serious that members of the legal system do not want to get involved meaning the council hire rooms at the court house and use council employees masquerading as judges.

There are no signatures on any of their paperwork, meaning it has no lawful or legal standing.

The Police:

All police stations are "For Profit" private corporations, and are no different to any other corporation or business.

A Constable is an individual sworn by oath to follow the law and is personally liable for his actions.

A Police Officer is an employee of a corporation with the occupation of generating a cash flow from illiterate people within the Plebetoral system.

Like all businesses they need you to contract with them to be able to have jurisdiction over you. They have no authority otherwise.

The Police cannot conduct business on public or common land, meaning The Police, being a “For Profit” private business cannot and do not apply policy to public land.

For example: As a private business they cannot use their private cameras on public land and then enforce their policy onto people without contract.

Because you have no contract with The Police, none of their paperwork or offers to pay applies to you.

You are tricked into contracting by first opening the mail, which would “Proclaim the Law”, and then get you to sign their contract and return it.

What they are doing is creating more debt, using the credit of your live Certificate of Birth, and then offering you to become the debtor and pay it back.

If you do not pay them, then The Police are liable to pay back your credit.

Global Monetary System:

The entire global monetary is debt based, meaning it is a global Ponzi scheme, with a worldwide debt of somewhere between 1.5 to 2.7 quadrillion dollars, with a world GDP of only $80 Trillion, approx.

If we take a look at Exter’s Pyramid - Global Asset Classes, this one from 2017 and priced in trillions of US dollars, you will see how weak it really is.

Income tax is used to support this pyramid scheme, and with interest rates being so low it would not take much to topple it.

Without income tax this Ponzi scheme collapses; without the millions in taxes, supporting the billions in government bonds, then the trillions in derivatives have no support.

Note: it should be noted just how small gold is, as an asset, within this global system.
